ProQuest: New York Times Archive

Articles in this database are available in full text as PDF files. Specific time periods are searchable using the Advanced Search feature. This feature can be found by moving your mouse over the orange “Search Methods” area, waiting for the drop-down menu to appear and clicking on “Advanced Search”. When the screen appears:

- Enter your terms in the search box.
- Scroll down the page until you see the options for searching dates.
- Select the options you wish to use. Note: the format for a specific date is mm/dd/yyyy.
- Click the yellow area marked “Add”. This will take you back to the search area above.
- Click on the yellow “Search” area or hit the Enter key.

Researching the Years 1952-Present

Microfilm

The Ritz library also has an archive of the New York Times on microfilm dating back to 6/1/52. Articles may be found using the New York Times Index located in the reference collection. To use the microfilm, please ask a reference librarian for help. The index can be found at Ref. 051.059 N532.
LEXIS/NEXIS: Academic Universe: News

Academic Universe offers the New York Times in full text from 6/1/80 to the present. Citations only are available from 1/1/69 to 5/31/80. To search the archives follow these steps:

- In the upper left hand area of the General News page you'll find a section that says Sources. Click on that.
- Click the N link in the alphabetical list.
- Scroll down the title list until you reach the New York Times.
- Click the link Search This Title. This will take you to the Guided Search page.
- Under the Date function, click the down arrow and choose All available dates.
- Enter your search terms in the boxes above. Click Search.

ProQuest New York Times Database

ProQuest keeps issues of the New York Times since 1999 in its database. Search by keyword from the main page. For a more detailed search ask a reference librarian to take you through the “Guided Search” feature.